

High-quality live TV production for 2013 Dunlop 24H DUBAI

GENNEP (December 19th, 2012) - Of course, watching the action live at Dubai Autodrome is the best way to experience the Dunlop 24H DUBAI (January 10-12, 2013). For those lucky enough to be there, access is free. All those at home have several options to choose from. Live TV coverage on Motors TV and various other channels, the 24H Series Youtube channel and commentary at radiolemans.com, plus live timing and scoring and latest news at live.24hseries.com are great ways to keep up with the race. Regular updates can also be found on Facebook \(24hseries\) and Twitter \(@24HSERIES\).

With 85 GT's, touring cars and 24H Specials expected on the grid for the eighth running of the Dunlop 24H DUBAI, there will be plenty of action at the 5.390 kilometres long Dubai Autodrome. Once again, the specialist team of German production company Quattro Media will be on site to produce spectacular footage. Plenty of cameras will be installed along the track and roving cameras will be available in the pit lane. Moreover, eight top cars will be equipped with on-board cameras to give a view from a driver's perspective. These onboard cameras are being supplied by ALFACAM, the expert company that also provides the onboard camera equipment and broadcast technology for the FIA World Touring Car Championship (WTCC).

Live TV coverage of the 2013 Dunlop 24H DUBAI is being presented by the event's title sponsor Dunlop and TV partner Nissan. Motors TV will be live on air for more than 16 hours during the event while live footage will also be broadcast by Sportklub (Croatia, Serbia, Bosnia, Slovenia, Macedonia, Poland, Montenegro), Nelonen Pro1 (Finland), LifeTV! (Belgium), Sport 5 (Czech Republic, Slovakia), Slovaksport (Slovakia), Viasat Motor (Sweden, Norway) and Arab Motors TV (Middle East). Many other channels worldwide will also show coverage of the Dunlop 24H DUBAI. Full details about TV coverage are available on the website
